

Human Rights Bookmarks

Hello educator, librarian, or caregiver,

Other than The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, most of the information included in these bookmarks is from the information provided by Youth for Human Rights. You can learn more about their work at:

www.youthforhumanrights.org

The page immediately following this one is intended to be printed on the back of each of the pages that follow it. Please contact me if you are interested in one page containing four identical bookmarks (all of the same right).

The font was used in order to promote the coloring of each of the bookmarks. The more time spent reading the right, the better possibility of memorization!

I find it most successful to create a display for students to reference in order to see the full text of the right on their bookmark. There are posters available on the website listed above and many ways to access the full text of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Enjoy and thank you for your support.

Your librarian,

Katelyn Martens-Rodriguez

Please, do not hesitate to contact me at katelyn@circulatingknowledge.com with any feedback!

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was created in 1948 by the United Nations. Today 192 countries are members of the United Nations. The United States of America is one of those countries. This means every American is entitled to each of the 30 rights. Read your rights, study your rights, and advocate for your rights!

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was created in 1948 by the United Nations. Today 192 countries are members of the United Nations. The United States of America is one of those countries. This means every American is entitled to each of the 30 rights. Read your rights, study your rights, and advocate for your rights!

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was created in 1948 by the United Nations. Today 192 countries are members of the United Nations. The United States of America is one of those countries. This means every American is entitled to each of the 30 rights. Read your rights, study your rights, and advocate for your rights!

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was created in 1948 by the United Nations. Today 192 countries are members of the United Nations. The United States of America is one of those countries. This means every American is entitled to each of the 30 rights. Read your rights, study your rights, and advocate for your rights!

We are all born free & equal.

Right #1

Don't discriminate.

Right #2

The right to life.

Right #3

No slavery.

Right #4

No torture.

Right #5

You have rights no matter where you go.

Right #6

We're all equal before the law.

Right #7

Your human rights are protected by law.

Right #8

No unfair detainment.

Right #9

The right to trial.

Right #10

We're always innocent till proven guilty.

Right #11

The right to privacy.

Right #12

Freedom to move.

Right #13

The right to seek a safe place to live.

Right #14

Right to a nationality.

Right #15

Marriage and family.

Right #16

The right to your own things.

Right #17

Freedom of thought.

Right #18

Freedom of expression.

Right #19

The right to public assembly.

Right #20

The right to democracy.

Right #21

Social security.

Right #22

Worker's rights.

Right #23

The right to play.

Right #24

Food and shelter for all.

Right #25

The right to education.

Right #26

Copyright.

Right #27

A fair and free world.

Right #28

Responsibility.

Right #29

No one can take away your human rights.

Right #30

1948

1948